Plutonian Productions is a Princeton based company working to give musicians, actors, and artists opportunities to gain exposure as well as explore their creativity. The company involves both amateurs who wish to gain experience, as well professionals who would like to delve into their craft in a less conventional way.

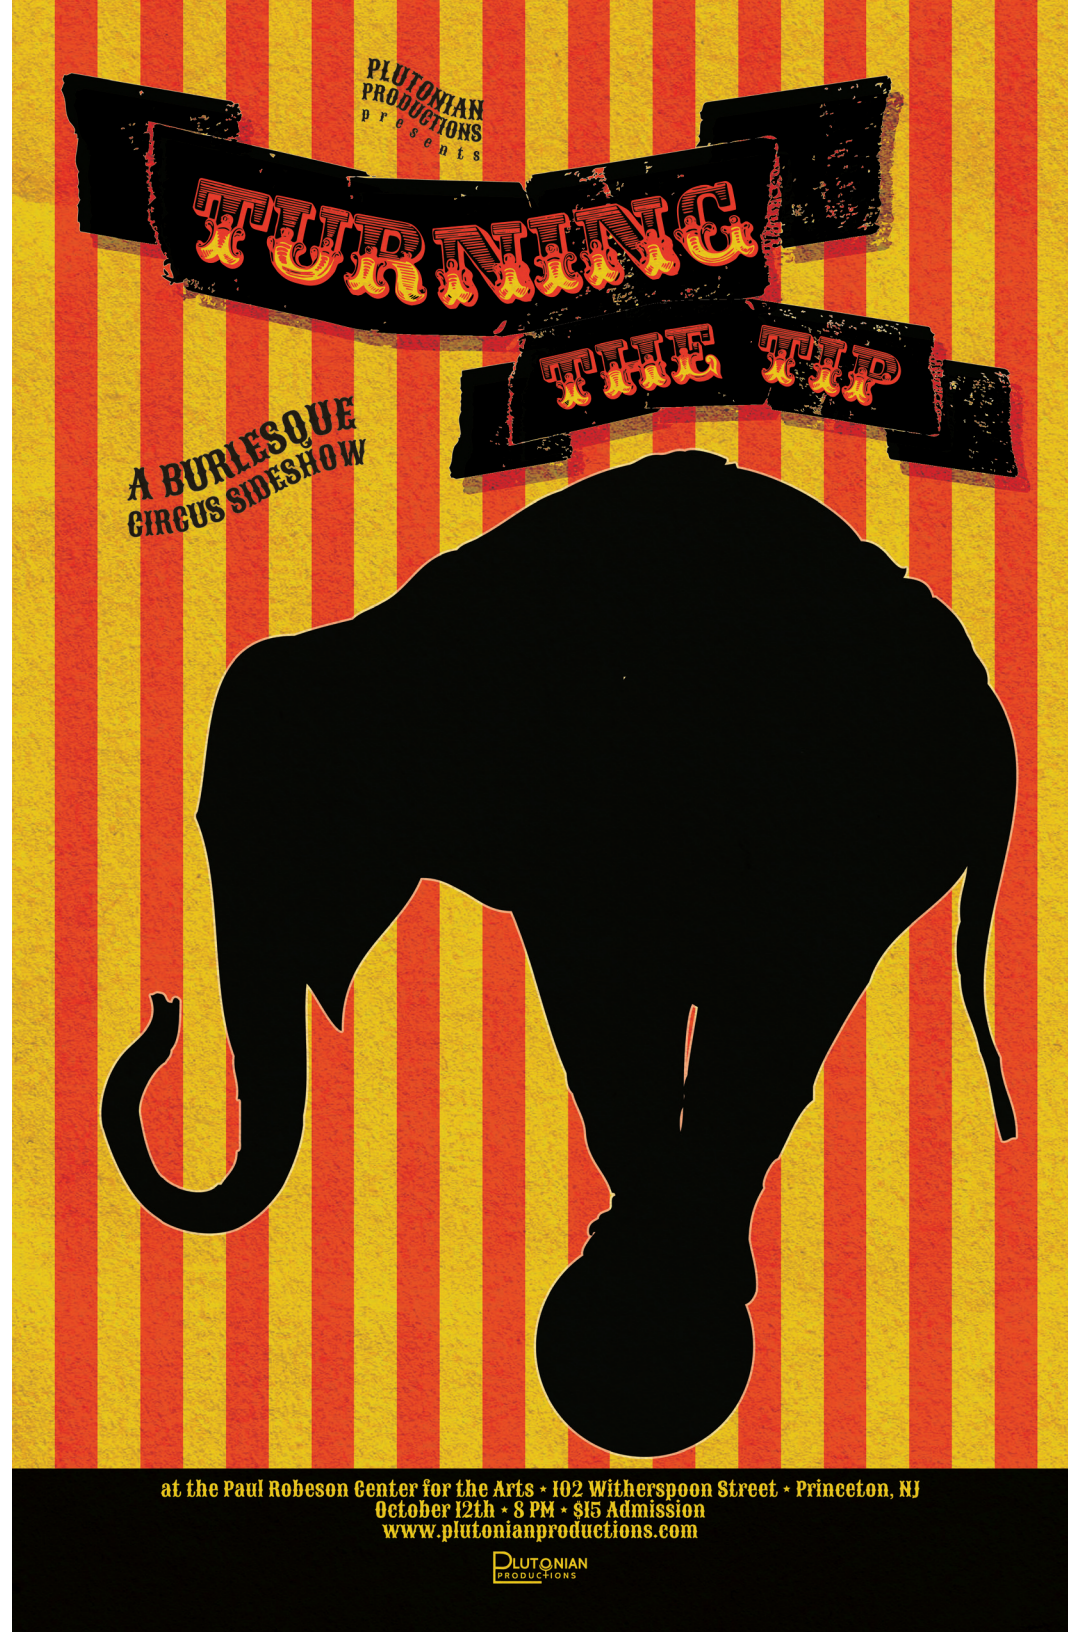

Founded last year by Westminster Choir College graduate Rachel Benoit, Plutonian Productions launched their first production at The Ivy Inn in Princeton on October 28th and 29th of 2011. Hollow: A Rock Cabaret was a Halloween themed show that featured an eclectic mix of music interpreted by a four piece rock band and acted out on stage by seven performers.
